MATTERS BEFORE SURROGATE GILL

The will of Mary L. Richardson of this city has been admitted to probate by Surrogate Gill. To her niece, Lavina A. Jansen, the testatrix devised her house and lot at No. 188 Main street, together with its contents. To her niece, Minnie E. Darling, she bequeaths $2,000; to her grand niece, Edna Van Wart, Grace E. Jansen, Emma Jansen, and to C. Beekman Jansen, she bequeaths $100 each; jewelry, silverware, books and other personal belongings are given to the nieces and grand nieces mentioned, and the balance of the estate is given to Lavina E. Jansen and Minnie E. Darling, who are appointed executrices. The will was executed September 29, 1920, and witnessed by Virgil B. Van Wageningen and Helen A. Jones. The value of the real estate is $8,000 and the personal property amounts to $8,000. Virgil B. Van Wageningen appeared for the executrices.

Letters of administration on the estate of Bridget Tarant of West Park were granted by Surrogate Gill to her daughter, Mary M. DeLeon. The value of the real estate is $5,000 and the personal property amounts to $15,000. Van Elten & Cook appeared for the administratrix.

Letters of administration on the estate of Chester C. Blodgett of the town of Shandaken were granted to his son, Fred C. Blodgett. The value of the real estate is $500 and the personal property amounts to $200. Virgil B. Van Wageningen appeared for the administrator.

A hearing was had before Surrogate Gill in the estate of Harriet A. Cox of the town of Wawarsing, in which the report of appraisal of Country Treasurer Lounsbury under the taxable transfer act was filed. The personal property amounts to $34,563.42; the real estate is valued at $500; the debts, commissions, expenses of administration, etc., amount to $1,802.48, leaving a net estate of $33,260.94, which goes equally to Frank B. Cox, a son, and Ann Eliza Cox, a daughter, who are also the executrices. The inheritance tax amounts to $232.60. The executrices were represented by Cason B. Murray; Andrew J. Cook appeared for the state comptroller.

COTTEKILL.

Cottekill, Dec. 30.—On Saturday evening, January 15, Cottekill Council No. 165, Jr. O. U. A. M., will hold installation of officers in their rooms in this village. Each member of the council is requested to bring one friend to this ceremony. Deputy State Councilor E. N. Snow and staff from Kingston will be present to officiate. After the installation there will be speeches and refreshments, followed by a social hour.

Preaching services in the Cottekill Reformed Church, Sunday, January 2, at 3 p. m., by the pastor, the Rev. F. A. Langwith. Sunday school at 2 o'clock. Everyone welcome at both services.

The Christmas community service held in the Reformed Church on Wednesday evening, December 22, was a great success. There were 115 present and all seemed to join in heartily and to enjoy the singing. Santa was present and gave candy to all the young people and all present received ice cream and home made cake free. The school presented the Rev. Langwith with a sterling silver Eversharp pencil, which was a complete surprise to him, and considerable amusement was caused by the number of packages he had to unwrap before coming to the present. The packages being graduated in size from a suit box to the original box containing the pencil, but the domino was game and continued his efforts until he secured his present.

Superintendent Conner was presented with a very fine pair of gold cuff buttons by his Sunday school class and Boy Scouts, the presentation being made by C. H. Barley, his remarks being very appropriate. After the refreshments were served a social hour was enjoyed and many were the expressions heard that it had been a very enjoyable evening, with a real community spirit prevailing.

Not His Name.

"Why did you break off your engagement with Mildred?"

"Because her parrot was always saying, 'Oh, Jack, don't!'"

"But what difference did that make? Your engagement was not a secret?"

STRANGERS SEEK BURIED TREASURE

Made a Century Ago by Counterfeiters on Shore of Lake in Maine.

AN EPISODE IS RECALLED

Working in Secret for Many Years, but Refrained From Passing Any of Their Product in the Neighborhood.

Bangor, Me.—The fact that a fortune lies buried in the dense forest somewhere along the shores of Money-maker lake, between Robbinston and Red Beach, well-nigh forgotten by the few residents of that section who ever knew it, has again been brought to mind.

A Robbinston farmer had, having strayed some distance from home in search of trout brooks, which might furnish better sport than those nearer the settlements, came upon two men digging under some giant spruce trees near the shores of Money-maker lake. The men did not observe him at first and he watched them while they toiled in two or three spots. Later, when he accosted them, they told him they were digging for worms for bait. As they had no fishing tackle with them, and as Money-maker lake has no fish worth catching, the boy thought this explanation somewhat remarkable.

Tells Story at Home. When he reached home he told of his adventure, and at first none could account for the presence of strangers or for their actions until one of the older residents of the town declared his belief that the two unknown men were seeking the buried treasure which has lain in secret for almost a century and has defied the efforts of treasure seekers for years.

Long ago many men labored diligently along the shores of the lake, but the search was abandoned, and until this week no one had been known to have hunted for the treasure for a quarter of a century.

Money-maker lake is surrounded by a heavy forest growth and is in a somewhat inaccessible place in northern Washington county. It derived its name from a gang of counterfeiters who, early in the nineteenth century, dwelt in a cabin on the shore of the lake and pursued their unlawful employment of making money, chiefly imitations of silver coin.

Later their names were known to be Ball, Smith and Blaisdell. Here they lived for many years in secrecy until one day, almost a century ago, a Robbinston farmer, looking for some cattle which had strayed from his pasture, came upon their cabin unawares and discovered the nature of their employment. He was seized by the three lawbreakers and carried into their cabin. Ball, the leader of the gang, was in favor of killing the visitor to make sure that there would be no evidence against them.

If Smith had not strongly objected Ball would probably have killed the farmer, but Smith was determined that the crime of murder should not be his, and a compromise was effected. The farmer was obliged to swear by the most binding oath that he would not reveal his discovery, and was then permitted to go.

Deputy Is slain. The farmer, after his return home, related between his fear of the counterfeiters and his sense of duty for a day or two, and then told the town authorities what had befallen him and what he had discovered. Deputy Sheriff Downes started for the forest at once, along the route described by the farmer.

Before reaching the cabin of the counterfeiters the officer came upon Ball, who was doing sentry duty. Deputy Downes, a courageous man, advanced upon Ball. The latter fled, bringing down the officer at the first shot. Other officers later captured Ball, but Smith and Blaisdell escaped and have never been heard from since. Ball was tried, convicted of murder and was executed.

Before his death by hanging the counterfeiters said that a large sum of money had been hidden by him at the foot of a tree near his cabin, but he defied any one to find it, and refused to tell its exact whereabouts. He said most of the money was in genuine silver coin, the spurious money having been distributed elsewhere. As soon as the story became known, and for many years after, hundreds went vainly to find the hidden hoard.

Marriage Was a Custom When He Needed Money

New York.—Marriage was a custom with Harry Schuster, he told police when arrested on charges of bigamy. "They're all vice girls," he said of his three wives. "I like them all and I think they like me. I never had a fight, but whenever I get broke I had to marry some one else with some money."

He Just Stopped Down. Shelbyville, Ind.—Luther Stewart, while putting on his collar, placed a pin in his neck. He said he had a pin in his neck and it was necessary to take him to Indianapolis for an operation.

Great Zinc Reserves in Canada. In the opinion of expert geologists, Canada could increase its production of zinc to supply one-fourth of the world's demand, which is estimated at more than 1,000,000 tons annually.

GIRL KIDNAPED BY MYSTERIOUS WOMEN

Dressed in Black and Heavily Veiled They Enter School-room and Grab Child.

Minneapolis, Minn.—Entering without knocking into the Richfield school room just before recess time, two tall women dressed in deep black and heavily veiled, kidnaped from the room Blanche Barker, eleven years old, while the teacher and the excited children looked on in astonishment.

The two black-clad women appeared suddenly in the schoolroom just as the children were rising from their seats for the recess period. They took the girl completely and their faces, looking quickly about the room, they spied little Blanche sitting back in a corner. They hurried toward her.

Shrank Back Frightened.

"Blanche, come with us," commanded the older and taller woman. The little girl shrank back, frightened.

"No, no; I don't know you," she cried.

Then the little schoolma'am intervened. "Leave the child alone," she ordered. "She doesn't know you. You mustn't take her."

The tall woman turned in fury, according to Miss Thayer.

"Keep your nose out of this," she commanded, sharply. "This is our affair, not yours."

Without another word, the two women made for the child, took her between them and started for the door. But the school teacher, highly indignant, stood in the way. She seized the little girl and attempted to hold her back. But the two women were too strong for her. Some of the children, excited by the struggle, started to cry.

The school teacher, despairing of retaining the child, turned her attention to the older woman. She seized her black veil, lifted it, and gazed full into her face.

Jerking the veil down, the woman turned back to the child, rushed with the other woman out the door, put the screaming child in a waiting touring car, and the three drove off behind the crippled driver, down Thirty-fourth avenue south, toward the open country.

Deputy sheriffs under Sheriff Eate Brown and the city police scoured the city and surrounding country, but found no trace of them.

Little Blanche Barker is the ward of Mrs. E. M. Chandler of Minneapolis. For six years previous to coming to live with Mrs. Chandler she lived in San Francisco, Cal., with Mrs. Bertha Barker.

Wants Thief to Get Rest of His Clarinet

San Diego.—"If you won't send back my clarinet, let me have your address so that I may send you the mouthpiece to the same," reads a newspaper advertisement inserted here by W. C. Watt, sailor on a ship here. His mouthpieceless instrument was stolen aboard ship.

Snake Kills Dog.

San Francisco, Cal.—Two fanciers of San Francisco learned of the death in Alexandria, La., of a dog named Ringer, champion Astorade, who won many blue ribbons at local bench shows. Ringer, owned by Dr. W. C. Phillips, formerly of the government health service in San Francisco, was killed by a diamond-headed moccasin snake in the grounds of the Phillips home. The dog killed the snake, but was fatally bitten, and died a few hours later.

Mystery That Will Never Be Solved.

Alexandria, Ind.—The old dog of the Herman Barke family came on extra large home these days and there's a good reason. Mrs. Barke had been missing for some time. She thought she had dropped to out of her automobile. Two days later she turned up with the money to his mouth. What is the story?

Unappreciated.

A man was asked by a woman to marry her and he said yes. She then asked him to marry her and he said no. She then asked him to marry her and he said yes. She then asked him to marry her and he said no. She then asked him to marry her and he said yes.

Atwood, Dec. 29.—Don't Forget

RECORD CROWDS SAW DANCERS

And Enjoyed Pictures At Opera House—Next Sum. Notted For Tuberculosis Hospital.

The threefold attraction of Miss Delta Boice and her youthful pupils giving an exhibition of acrobatic dancing; Olive Thomas in the thrilling and charming photoplay, "The Flapper"; and the fact that all net proceeds would go to the Tuberculosis Hospital, brought out three record audiences at the Opera House on Wednesday afternoon and evening. And each audience was more than delighted.

The program opened with the Christmas Festival (Ballet) by Louis H. Chalis, the first dance being the first. This dance given by Virginia Doyle, Priscilla Davis, Evelyn Brooks, Florence Ellison, Rosalind Ellison, Dorothy Mac Fadden, Mabel Kirschner and Rose Weisberg, in fluffy white costumes sparkling with silver frosting was as pretty as could be, and ended with the first flares crystallizing in two groups on either side of the stage. Then in danced the Snowflakes, also in white costumes with various sized and shaped snowflakes as decorations. The grand dance was given by Natalie DeWitt, Lena Elmendorf, Janet Fowler, Eleanor Herbert, Edna Hall, Fanny Kellner, Marion Price and Kathleen Sharp, and at its close the snowflakes followed the first crystals in two pretty groups at the sides of the stage.

Then, giving brightness and color to the picture, came the holly dancers, in gowns of green, holly trimmed, Julia Burgevin, Charlotte Wheeler, Marjorie Richards, Rhoda Schoenfeld, Angela Cashin, Helen Carbin, and Anna O'Leary. This was a sprightly as well as graceful dance, and ended in the dancers grouping themselves at the back of the stage.

The holly girls were lovely, and so were the tiny Mistletoe dancers with sprays of this loved Christmas charm decorating their white frocks. They were Betty Betts, Gertrude Brinler, Katherine Anderson, Donna Koefe, Rosalind Preston, Mary Frances Mears, Lucia de Castro, and Dorothy Kline, and they were as dainty and graceful as one would expect Mistletoe to be, and cunning beyond words.

Dancing themselves tired, all of the dancers softly fell asleep or as nearly so as it is ever safe for one to be when Santa Claus is soon expected, and behold, there he was, bless his old heart! (By the way, Fehmer Chandler made a splendid Santa.) He left many gifts behind the sleeping dancers, but evidently did not have quite enough to go around, so left the stage returning immediately with such pretty Christmas presents, all dressed in pink and blue gauze. They were Sally O'Leary, Jane Mac Fadden, Katherine McHugh, Olga McIntyre, Helen Alder, Janet Lown, Ruth Jane Mowell and Judith Jaffe, and a prettier dance you could not wish to see. The entire dance closed with a pretty tableau, the whole being enthusiastically encored.

Two solo dances were next given by older pupils of Miss Boice, the first "Hark! Hark! The Lark," a most graceful interpretive dance; the other, "The Queen of Hearts," also extremely graceful.

Then came a charming, spirited and vivid group dance, "Roman Group Dance" (Marche Heroique), wherein the dancers, Julia Burgevin, Marjorie Richards, Helen Cashin, Angela Cashin and Marguerite Myers, in draperies of soft crimson silken fabric, danced a vigorous, dramatic dance that was a delightful innovation.

The program of dancing closed with the "Fox Trot" danced by Miss Boice in gown and cap of orange colored chiffon with touches of black velvet, and Fehmer Chandler. So charmingly graceful and pleasing was this dance that the dancers were obliged to repeat it.

Once more Miss Boice and her pupils are to be congratulated on the success of their exhibition of acrobatic dancing which will surely net a neat sum for the Tuberculosis Hospital.

After the dancing came one of the most delightful amusing, humorous and wholesome if impossible photoplays, "The Flapper," in which Olive Thomas completely captivated her audience.

It was all delightfully entertaining and will long be remembered with other pleasures of the Christmas season of 1926.

Pleasure in Studying Bird Life.

The co-operation of birds and man, studied from the days of Vergil, may well become more intimate and more fruitful of results, as our understanding of bird-life grows deeper. Was it not a British statesman, Viscount Grey of Fallodon, who said in one of his public speeches that the appreciation and study of birds yields a pleasure "more and more lasting than any pleasures of excitement and, in the long run, happier than personal success?"

Early Fireworks.

In Rome, at the coronation of the pope, illuminated "hand grenades" were thrown from the tops of castles, and about the commencement of the fourteenth century fireworks had become an art in which inventors displayed great ability in combining the powers of architecture, sculpture and painting.

CONDENSED CLASSICS

LORNA DOONE

By R. D. BLACKMORE

Condensation by Katherine M. Markward, Allston, Mass.

Richard Dadd, who was born at Loughborough, Leicestershire, England, June 7, 1855. He was educated at Eton and at the Royal Academy, London, and at the Royal College of Art, London, where he obtained a scholarship. His first publication was a volume of poems which showed a particular promise, but he was, nevertheless, ambitious to succeed, and enthusiastic in his pursuit of literature. A complete breakdown in health rendered it necessary for him to leave city life, in London, and he determined to combine a literary life in the country with a business career as a market-gardener. He settled down in Teddington, and actually worked. Several publications followed, the first of which was "Lorna Doone," the merits of which were promptly recognized. But it was in 1888 that he suddenly struck into fame with "Lorna Doone." This story was one of the first to be devoted to the romantic novel, and it was, as it did, at a time when the reading public was waiting and ready for a work of this type. It was a great success, and announced a novel of "magical charm, vigor and imagination."

Though Blackmore wrote many other stories, none have reached the popular heart like "Lorna Doone" and he will be remembered chiefly as the author of this charming story, which is a classic of the west country. Many alliterations are made usually in the Doone valley, although the name is not mentioned in the story, after greatly from the descriptions inspired by the lively imagination of the author.

"Lorna Doone" is a truly outdoor story; at times it is very dramatic and picturesque and threaded with adventure.

Blackmore kept to his quiet country life in the last, and passed away at Teddington on Jan. 20, 1909.

IN EXMOOR is the county of Somerset, in the year of grace 1681, dwelt the outlawed Doones, who, huge and brutal, defied king and common, committed brazen robberies with impunity, and took refuge after every outrage in the well-known impregnable Glen Doone. On the nearby farm of Plover's Barrows, dwelt John Ridd, a great limbed lad, who had been summoned home from boarding school in his teens to learn that his father, a wealthy farmer, had been slain in a night raid by the Doones. John, blunt and honest, was kind to his mother and his two sisters, did his share of the farm work, and as he grew to manhood, learned to ride a horse and shoot a blunderbuss with unfailing skill.

One day, while yet a boy, his fishing excursions in Bagworthy water led him to discover an entrance to Glen Doone, so secret, so remote that the robber band stationed to guard there, never dreaming that living soul would discover it. Following a little cascade, John emerged at last into a dell blooming with primroses, and himself with amazement a beautiful child of eight, with hair like a black raven and eyes full of pity and wonder. Her name (pretty, like herself) was Lorna Doone, and John often had her in his thoughts through the six years which followed. He was twenty then, and Lorna fourteen, and already John Ridd knew that he loved her, that fate had decreed it so and that all the world was naught when weighed against this girl.

To be found in Doone valley spelled death for any man, but the thought of Lorna, light and white, fragile, smooth and elegant, filled John with yearning and lured him to the hazard. Again and again he sought the maid in the primrose bowers above the cascade and then one afternoon in the splendor of an April sunset John took more than down the gauntlet, which love ever casts at danger. To Lorna's treacherous, "You are mad to come; they will kill you if they find you here," John smiled and thought her fairer than the primroses amid which she stood. She lived in constant fear, she confessed, for the gigantic and passionate Carver Doone openly paid her homage and glowered with jealous eyes at any man who dared cast a glance at her.

"I care naught for him or his jealousy," cried John Ridd. "I have loved you long as a child, as a comely girl, and now as full grown maiden. I love you more than tongue can tell or heart can hold in silence." Lorna raised her glorious eyes and, flinging her arms about his neck, cried, with her heart on his, "Darling, I shall never be my own again. I am yours forever and forever." But before he went she was in tears. "But dare I dream of love? Something in my heart tells me it can never be."

That test of his beloved's spurring John to penetrate into Glen Doone one night at the risk of his life for word of Lorna. Once a snail heeded his aim at him but went off crashing at the thought that after all he had a farm could be only that of Carver Doone.

It was a mad dasher which threatened Lorna, for old Sir Plover Doone, head of the robber crew, lay dying and he alone had been her protector against the brutal Carver. For John to play a desperate game and carry Lorna off would but invite the Doones to wreak revenge upon the country-side with fire and sword. At times he swore to smother out this nest of rascals, but the timid farmers, overawed by their savagery, would promise no support.

Meanwhile an unparalleled winter had set in. Day after day the snow fell steadily and, blown by the wind, almost smothered the low-eared cottages. Desperate for some word of Lorna, John made his way on snowshoes into the very heart of Glen Doone, unobserved in that feathered fog. John found Lorna's hamlet, stifled her exclamations of surprise with kisses, and felt his heart swell with anger on learning that she and her maid, Gwendy Carfax, were kept in confinement and deprived of food by order of Carver Doone until Lorna should consent to be his wife. Not for naught was John Ridd a giant—and in love. Throwing discretion to the winds he carried Lorna and Gwendy away upon his sledge that very night to the warm refuge of his mother's fireside.

The Doones, though so openly set at defiance, hid their time. With spring the roads were open and one moonlight night, with an arrogance worthy of Carver, they attacked Plover's Barrows in force. John Ridd, nothing daunted, defended his fireside and loved ones with spirit, meeting the attackers squarely with a handful of men and putting them to speedy flight. A murderous attack by the Doones was had business enough, but to John's honest soul a worse trouble followed.

His Lorna was discovered to be no true Doone, but the niece of the great Lord Dugal, kidnapped as a child. To London and the protection of her noble uncle she was summoned, her heart, as well as her lover's torn by the separation. The thought that he might never again behold his Lorna plunged him into misery.

"After all," he asked himself, "who am I but a simple farmer, who dares lift his eyes to the niece of an earl?"

But this was no time for repining, for the ill-starred rebellion of Monmouth flamed out, catching John Ridd, innocent though he was, in its coils. But all came to a happy issue when John, summoned to London, frustrated the intended murder of Lord Dugal, captured the attackers, and turned them over for punishment to the terrible Lord Jeffries. Events moved swiftly; his exploit made London ring, he was knighted by King James, and when the earl of Dugal died soon after, a well-directed bribe secured Jeffries' permission to let Lorna, his ward in chancery, wed the redoubtable Sir John Ridd.

Back to Exmoor and Plover's Barrows went John Ridd, knight, to lead the farmers of the countryside who, infuriated by a new outrage committed by the Doones, took the law into their own hands and swept the robber stronghold clean with fire and sword. Only the scheming old "counsellor" and his son, the brutal Carver, escaped a bloody death.

Now at last the great day dawned for John and Lorna and they made their way to the little country church to be wed while all the neighboring farmers came to applaud the event. Scarcely were the sacred words of the service pronounced when a shot rang through the church and Lorna, her dark eyes drooping, her wedding gown stained with blood, sank into her husband's arms. John Ridd never forgot the agony of that moment and yet he seemed strangely calm. Only Carver Doone could have done this dastardly deed and as John dashed off in hot pursuit he swore that the world was too narrow a place to harbor him and his enemy another day. For Carver on his lashed horse there was no escape. His pistol missed fire, and at last in a narrow defile flanked by a wood and a stretch of bog the two men came to grips. They spoke little and that grim duel was fought with neither knife nor pistol but body to body as became two giants.

John felt a lower rib crack beneath Carver's terrible embrace, but his iron hand ripped the muscles of his assailant's arm from the bone like an orange pulp and he flung him, crushed and bleeding, upon the ground. In an instant the black lips of the bog fastened upon Carver's huge limbs, swiftly, silently, and John Ridd had scarce time to get his own feet upon firm soil before his enemy was sucked down into those grim depths, his face distorted with agony, but his quivering lips uttering no sound.

Lorna's true course does not always run swift and both John and Lorna recovered, he to worship her and she to assure him through the seven years with eyes and lips all eloquent: "I love you, John Ridd."

Somatra at a Standstill.

The rubber plantations and tobacco fields of Somatra are of greatest importance in the island. In addition, Liberian coffee thrives under the protection of vast coconut groves. Ten-foot papaya trees climb thickly up the trunks of small trees, and dwarf forests of leavedwood, planted in rows, overhang and shade the road.

With such artificial soil, unending rainfall and tremendous natural resources, only the lack of labor and the deterrent influence of warring tribes has held Somatra practically at a standstill.

Some Very Old Trees

Two trees grow on a great old farm at Tottenham, London, England, which were old in 1532. "California" has been the name of the trees for many years and the trees are over four centuries old.

WHITEFIELD.

Whitefield, Dec. 29.—The Christmas exercises and social at the school house last Thursday evening was a success in every way. Net proceeds were $14.51 which will go for school supplies.

Mrs. Alex Brown and daughter of Leithard attended the exercises at the school house Thursday evening. Mr. and Mrs. Simon Hornbeck entertained at their home on Christmas Day. Mr. and Mrs. Herman Rosenkrantz, Mrs. Della Davis of Kingston, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Davis and daughter, and Dewitt Hornbeck of Schenectady, and Calvin Davis of Accord.

Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Enderly entertained on Christmas Day. Mr. and Mrs. Hiram Quick, Mr. and Mrs. Jess Quick and daughter, and Mr. and Mrs. James Enderly and family.

The young people of this place, Accord, Meltinghous and Leithard, gave Edmund Barley a surprise party at his home Saturday evening. Games and music were the features of the evening and the refreshments were served.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Miller and daughter, Mrs. Jane Miller, and daughter spent Christmas Day with Mr. and Mrs. George Stokes and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Rosenkrantz entertained on Sunday at their home Mr. and Mrs. Simon Hornbeck, Calvin Davis, Mrs. Della Davis, Dewitt Hornbeck, Mr. and

All dressed up and no place to go. These are a few types of the hats worn by women of foreign countries. In the upper left-hand corner is a woman of Lapland wearing a simple but serviceable hat. While odd to her eyes, this type of hat is quite the thing for the women of the north. The headdress in the center looks funny, but it is quite the thing with the Laos in Siam. The women there enjoy their pipe as well as the men. The latter illustration shows a beauty of Norway wearing a highly decorative flat headress worn only on festive occasions.

Mrs. Arthur Davis and daughter.

A very pleasant day was enjoyed. Minnie Hornbeck spent Sunday with her cousin, Ethel Baker. Calvin Davis spent Saturday evening with Dewitt Hornbeck at Wood Brook Cottage and attended the party at Edmund Barley's.

Edmund Barley of Rochester city is spending his holiday vacation with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Barley.

School is closed in this place for the holiday vacation. Miss Brown is spending the week with her parents at Leithard. The young people who are spending their holiday vacation with their parents in this place are Miss Aelma Enderly of Kingston, Miss Josephine Barley, the Misses Margaret and Elizabeth Barley, Lorna Quick and Edmund Barley.

Dewitt Barley and Arthur Barley were Ellenville visitors last Wednesday.

William of Wykeham.

As a necessary adjunct and access to Winchester school, William of Wykeham founded New College at Oxford, and the publication of the charter of foundation of the latter establishment bears the date of November 26, 1377. Wykeham, to this day is one of the most popular characters in English history, and his biography is indeed a large part of it.—Chicago Journal.

NOT TO INCREASE
BRITISH NAVY

By Telegram to The Freeman.

London, Dec. 30.—The cabinet has decided that the British naval program shall not be extended at the present time, regardless of developments in connection with the proposal for armament reduction by the United States, Great Britain and Japan, the Evening News stated today.

The advisability of naval disarmament has been put up to the admiralty by the cabinet, it was learned today.

The sentiment of the press is voiced by the Pall Mall Gazette, which carried a page wide headline as follows:

"Can the world disarm?"

HIGH FALLS

High Falls, Dec. 30.—The Christmas exercises of the Reformed Church were held on Friday evening, December 24, with a very good attendance. The stereopticon slides were very much enjoyed by the school. An address of welcome was given by Maurice Goetheus, the music given by the choir and younger members of the school was well rendered and the closing good night and Merry Christmas was given by Herbert Snyder. The scholars received presents from the school and a good time was enjoyed by all.

Mr. and Mrs. Mrs. J. G. White of Newburgh were Christmas guests at the home of Miss Kate Clearwater. Mrs. C. I. Lefever of Bloomington, spent Sunday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Barnhart. Mr. and Mrs. Lambert Broadhead and daughter, Alta, spent Christmas with Mrs. Martha Sheeley. Franklin O. Church was the guest of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Church on Christmas Day.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Stephens entertained relatives from Bridgeport, Conn., during the Christmas season. Mr. and Mrs. Grover Smith spent Christmas at the home of her parents at Kerhonkson.

ODDS AND ENDS.

The regular meeting of the Woman's Missionary Society of the First Reformed Church will be held on Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the chapel of the church. Chapter 4 of the study book will be considered, the topic being "The Travels of the Book." Miss Ellen Van Slyke will be the leader.

The Missionary Society of St. James's M. E. Church will be entertained by Mrs. T. H. Edmonston in the church parlors Friday afternoon at two o'clock. The devotions will be in charge of Mrs. Henry Down. Mrs. A. H. Van Buren will give the third chapter in the Home Text Book, and Mrs. E. L. Angle, the third chapter in the Foreign Text book.

LOCAL DEATH RECORD.

Recent Deaths and Funerals of Persons in This Vicinity.

Hiram Wager died at his home in Krumville Monday after an illness of several weeks. The funeral will be held from the Krumville church Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Sarah C. O'Connor, wife of Thomas Horan, who died in Brooklyn Tuesday, was a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Peter O'Connor, of Rosendale. She is survived by three sisters, Mrs. Patrick Smith, Mrs. Conrad Smith and Mary O'Connor, all of New York city; two brothers, Stephen of New York and Peter of 127 Prospect street; this city. Funeral Friday afternoon on the arrival of the 2:15 West Shore train. Interment in the family plot in St. Mary's cemetery.

Ralph Ostrander, a life long resident of this city and for many years a valued employee of Terry Brothers, died Wednesday evening after a short illness. Besides his wife he leaves one daughter, Miss Margaret Ostrander; two brothers, James and John Ostrander; three sisters, Mrs. Howard Shultz, Mrs. Herman Douglas and Mrs. Harry H. Terwilliger. The funeral will be held from his late home, No. 35 Ponchockie street, Saturday afternoon at 2:30. Interment in the family plot in Monticello cemetery.

THE JOINTERS.

News of Interest to Members of Fraternal Societies.

The following lodges hold regular meetings this evening:

Minnekahta Tribe, No. 123, Improved Order of Red Men, at 425 Broadway.

ATWOOD.

Atwood, Dec. 30.—Mrs. Charles Smith was visiting at the residence of Mrs. Celia Overholt one day the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Quick were visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bertha Winchell of Otter Bridge.

Louise Body called on Mrs. Mary Ann Smith one day the past week. Mrs. George Winchell and daughter, Bluel, spent a pleasant Christmas Eve at the home of Mrs. Celia Overholt.

Mr. Richard Krom is not improving the much at this writing.

Ernest Quick was given a beautiful wood statue for Christmas.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Markle have returned to their home in Newburgh after spending a few weeks with Mrs. Markle's father, William Debus.

James Francis is spending the holidays with relatives in Jersey City, N. J.

CORNELL LOSES
IN ENGLAND

By Telegram to The Freeman.

London, Dec. 30.—The joint Oxford-Cambridge cross country team defeated Cornell University's cross country runners over the Rothampton country course today, 26 to 29. McInnis of Oxford finished first, Carter and McDermott of Cornell were second and third.

BASKETBALL AT
"Y" TONIGHT

There will be two games in the Industrial Basketball League at the Y. M. C. A. this evening. The West Shores will clash with the U. S. Lacé Curtain Mills at 8 o'clock, and at 8:45 o'clock the Pessendens will contest matters with the Herberts. Some fast games are being played in the league, and it is expected there will be a big attendance.

City Really Conveyed.

Elmer E. Swart and wife have conveyed to William P. Miller and wife premises on the easterly side of Elmendorf street, the parcel of land being 44X90 feet.

A new and charming portrait of Lady Patricia Ramsay and her baby son, Alexander Prince of Wales, who is the daughter of the Duke of Connaught, was the first royal lady in many years to wed a commoner. Her husband is Commander Alexander Ramsay, R. N., and a brother of the Earl of Dalhousie.

At last on the screen, Sir Arthur Pinero's greatest play, with beautiful Elsie Ferguson in the leading role.

An absorbing drama of a "second wife"—one who was always "measured by the perfection of the first"—always found wanting—driven to fight for a place in her own family, until in desperation—

She revealed what the first wife really was; who that "model mother's" son was!

A new triumph of emotional acting!

As the girlish, fun-loving wife—homeless in her own home—nagged by "his people" until she turns like a tigress and reads them, Elsie Ferguson has created a character glowing with warm blood.

A story as powerful, human, touching, as it is common in real life. A picture for all women, and all men who marry them!

HAYS'S MESSAGE OF OPTIMISM

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Marion, O., Dec. 30.—"The slipping has stopped." That was the message concerning the economic condition of the country which Will H.
Hays brought to Senator Harding today. The chairman of the Republican national committee, in reporting on the effect of Senator Harding's activities of the last few weeks, said:
"This normal man is doing the normal thing. He is keeping his promise that he would immediately approach and seek a solution of the great foreign and domestic problems through discussion with a body of leaders as possible. From all sides comes the word that this splendid course is going far indeed towards aiding a situation which might have been very different as we move into the new year."

SOCIETY NOTES.

Bridge-Mortimer.
Miss Inez E. Mortimer of Kingston and Albert Bridge of Sleights-burgh were married Wednesday evening at Trinity M. E. Church by the pastor, the Rev. P. C. Weyant.
They were attended by members of Mr. Bridge's family.

Federation News.

On Monday afternoon, January 4, there will be a collection of money and unsold Christmas seals and health bonds at the Y. M. C. A., and Mrs. Thompson, president of the Federation of Women's Clubs asks that all ward chairmen or other persons responsible for the sale of seals be present at the Y. M. C. A. promptly at 2 o'clock, with their money in full and other supplies. On Tuesday evening, January 4, the regular quarterly open meeting of the Federation will be held in cooperation with the Ulster County Home Bureau at St. John's parish house, when at 8 o'clock there will be a lecture on interior decorating, which will be free to the public. The community service committee, Mrs.
Michael, chairman, is cooperating with the Home Bureau in this matter. At 7 o'clock on the same evening there will be an exceptionally important meeting of the executive committee of the Federation, held also at the parish house.

A Port Ewen Party.
A very pleasant evening was spent on Sunday evening at the home of Miss Ethel Hines in Port Ewen. During the evening music was furnished by Kerman Gallagher's jazz band of Pittsfield. Miss Lucy Gallagher and Joseph Barton sang "Let the Rest of the World Go By," assisted by Thomas Gallagher at the piano.
Barth Joyce kept the young folks in roars of laughter with his poetry and witty remarks. Ethel Hines and Anna Gibbons entertained by dancing a few of the latest dances, including the "Chicago Roll" and the "Pisco," which were enjoyed by all.
The home was decorated for the occasion with red and green crepe paper. About midnight refreshments were served which were enjoyed by all. Those present were Anna, Agnes and Sarah Kenney, Margaret Duff, Helen Cummings, Lizzie Gibbon, Anna McDonald, Lucy Gallagher of Pittsfield, Irene Hines, Anna Gibbons, Anna Corbett, Ethel Hines, Marjorie Flynn, Harry Corbett, William Corbett, John Hines, John Needham, Grant Hotelling, John Gly-
bons, Les Tucker, Ray Cummings,
Barth Joyce, Joseph Barton, James
Taylor, Stephen Murphy and William Malis. The party broke up in the wee hours of the morning, all voting
Miss Hines a royal entertainer.

Clock Running Since 1824.
A privileged party is being conducted through the state rooms of the White House in Washington had their attention directed to the handsome clock upon the mantel of the blue room, presented by the French to President Andrew Jackson in 1824.
"It was running then," proclaimed the chief usher of the mansion boastfully,
"and it's been running ever since."
Louis XIV's own clock, by the way,
at Versailles, has been running regularly since 1684.

WILSON VETOES DELAY FOR ROADS

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Washington, Dec. 30.—President Wilson today vetoed the resolution deferring for one year enforcement of those provisions of the Clayton act which require railroads to divest themselves of their interest in corporations and companies manufacturing and selling railroad equipment.

WITTENBERG.
Dec. 30.—About twenty-five friends gathered at the home of Hilda Short on Tuesday evening for a surprise. The evening was spent in playing games and music, after which a delicious luncheon was served. At midnight all departed for their homes, thanking the hostess for the pleasant evening.
Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Warren and son, Ivan of Milton returned home on Wednesday after visiting friends here.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Short called on Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Viehmann Sunday evening.
Miss Hilda Short spent Tuesday afternoon with her cousin, Ruth Short.
Miss Maza Elling is ill at this writing.
The Sunday school was reorganized on Sunday last.

Hadn't Wasted Any Time.
A young couple rushed into a marriage license bureau recently and announced to the clerk that they wished to be married at once. Dan Cupid's executive officer surveyed the couple from under grizzled brows and said severely: "I'm afraid this is a runaway match." "Well, your honor," returned the prospective groom, "I can't exactly say we ran, but we walked pretty fast."

3-4 Puzzle.

Billy and Mary stopped in the house next door to see the new talking machine. After they heard a piece or two Mary started to look over and said: "It's not like ours." Mrs. Case asked: "What kind of a machine have you?" Mary engaged in deep thought. At last she exclaimed: "It's a Scotch collier."

Billy spoke up, saying: "Mary is always getting things wrong. It's a fox terrier. If you don't think I'm right, Mrs. Case, you go over and look at the picture on it."—Indianapolis News.

POST EVENT.

The Sunday school of the Reformed Church held their Christmas exercises last Sunday evening. The church was filled and the school gave a Christmas song and story service by the Tuller, Meredith Company, entitled "A Song in the Air." The "white gifts" consisted of money, which reached the fine total of $57.12 and was sent to the famine sufferers of China. On Tuesday evening the school with the home department met in the Sunday school room and spent a delightful evening in singing and playing games. Ice cream and cake were served by the Sunday school to all who attended. The mid-week prayer service of the Reformed Church will be held Thursday evening at 7:15. Topic, "The Closing Year." Hebrews 6:19. Let us make this the best meeting of the year in returning thanks to God for His mercies.

BASKETBALL AT ALLABEN.

Chichester Meets Hunter New Year's Night.

Basketball games and dancing will be resumed at the Shandegnon Hall, Allaben on Saturday evening, January 1st, when the Hunter and Chichester teams, old time rivals, meet there at 8:30 o'clock. The excellent showing made by these teams in their last few contests has imbued each with rare confidence and a real live clean contest is sure to result. The teams will line up for this game as follows:

Hunter: Dolan, lf. Boyarsky, cf. F. Strenk, c. Fromer, 1b. G. Strenk, 3b. Chichester: Zimmerman, lf. Frost, cf. Paulner, c. Pennington, 1b. Jocelyn, 3b.

There will be a dance immediately after the game, with good music.

SPENCER'S BUSINESS SCHOOL.

Largest Enrollment in the History of the Institution.

Spencer's Business School, corner Wall and John streets, has one of the largest enrollments of bright American students ever booked in its long career. Since September 7th, nearly 200 pupils have registered in the various departments of study, and many others are planning to enter at the beginning of the mid-winter term, January 2d. The school is now nicely located in a modern building with large, well lighted and ventilated class rooms and study halls. A late model automatic drinking fountain has been installed for the pupils; everything is clean and sanitary throughout. With its modern facilities Spencer's holds high rank among the commercial colleges of the country. With the increasing patronage, the school management is making arrangements to add to the equipment, etc.
